BOSTON — A coalition of New England states jointly submitted two applications to secure federal funding to support investments in large-scale transmission and energy storage infrastructure to enhance grid reliability and resilience across the region. The Massachusetts Department of Energy.

On May 5th, the Massachusetts Department of Energy (DOER), in collaboration with the state's electric distribution companies (i.e. utilities), announced the launch date for the first in a series of long-anticipated solicitations for grid-scale energy storage. The RFP will open on July 31, 2025, and.

Massachusetts recently stepped closer to its first major solicitation for long-term energy storage contracts under its new Section 83E authority. On May 5, the MA Department of Energy Resources (DOER), in partnership with the state's electric distribution companies (EDCs), jointly filed a draft.

The Governor launched the Energy Storage Initiative in May 2015, with the goal of advancing the energy storage segment of the Massachusetts clean energy industry by: Recommending and developing policies, regulations and programs that help achieve those objectives. The ESI includes a study.

For over 90 years, the Vicinity Energy district energy system has served reliable, resilient, and sustainable energy to Boston's leading businesses. tons of carbon emissions our system avoids annually miles of underground pipe infrastructure tons of carbon emissions our system avoids annually.

Plus Power has announced the close of construction and term financing for the first major utility-scale standalone battery storage system in construction on the New England grid, among other firsts for standalone storage in the region. The Cranberry Point facility, located in Carver, Massachusetts.
