What is InfoLink's global lithium-ion battery supply chain database?

InfoLink Consulting has launched its global lithium-ion battery supply chain database. According to InfoLink's global lithium-ion battery supply chain database, energy storage cell shipments reached 202.3 GWh in the first three quarters of 2024, up 42.8% YoY.

What will happen to lithium in 2022-2023?

In the short to medium-term, deficits are expected for lithium in 2022-2023, whereas the global supply/demand market balance will be tight for nickel (by 2029), graphite (by 2024) and manganese (by 2025). By 2025, the EU domestic production of battery cells is expected to cover EU's consumption needs for electric vehicles and energy storage.

Are lithium-ion batteries still a dominant technology?

Lithium-ion batteries remain the dominant technology, and supply chain constraints are putting immense pressure on the industry. Currently, there is a limited number of lithium-ion battery manufacturing facilities in the U.S., according to a recently released report from the American Clean Power Association (ACP).

Which energy storage cell manufacturers have the most shipments in 2024?

In the first three quarters of 2024, global utility-scale energy storage cell shipments reached 180 GWh, up 49.4% YoY. The top five manufacturers, CATL, EVE Energy, Hithium, CALB, and BYD, dominate the market, with the top two holding nearly 55% combined share. Hithium, CALB, and BYD each shipped over 10 GWh with similar volumes.
